By: Ali Khabazian – visit: https://github.com/Alikhabazian0 vocabulary	definition

Portfolio	a group or collection of things make ends meet	make enough money to live serial	used to describe a repeated act, especially a criminal act entrepreneur	someone who starts and runs businesses add another string to my bow	learn a new skill corporate	relating to a large company survival mechanism	something that your body does without thinking to keep you alive to reset	to make something work again by going back to original settings reflex	a physical action you can't control to breathe a sigh of relief	to feel better after worrying about something fear	frustration the feeling of being annoyed because you can't do something resignation	the feeling of accepting something bad that you cannot change attention span	the length of time you can focus on something distract	to take someone's focus away from something bad press	criticism in the media fishy	suspicious gizmo	a small piece of technology – otherwise called a gadget sustainable	able to continue over a long period of time (or able to continue without causing harm) to screw	to join together using a screw: a nail with twisting raised edges lower your expectations	to reduce your belief something good will happen obsolete	no longer used, out of date throwaway culture	describes a society in which people throw things out very easily a (cat) person	someone who likes or prefers (cats) to scratch your head (about something)	(to be confused) about something landmark	something which is easily recognisable and helps you find your way magnet	a piece of metal which attracts certain metals systematic	done according to a system territory	the area an animal controls funeral	a ceremony we hold for a dead person ceremony	a formal event performed on special occasions – like a wedding, a graduation or a funeral fancy dress	special clothes you wear to an event to look like a famous person or character from a movie, for example costume	a set of clothes you wear to look like somebody else to go all out	to make a big effort meme	a picture or video with an amusing caption that a lot of people share with each other online grumpy	bad tempered!

run out of time	use it all up pendulum	a stick with a weight on the end that swings regularly from side to side dial	the round part of a clock (but more generally, it refers to a round instrument that shows you the amount of something, for example, heat, pressure or speed) mechanical	it has to do with machines precise accurate and exact straitjacket	limiting what somebody can do in a way that is damaging. It's also a jacket with long arms that are tied behind a person to stop them from behaving violently guffaw	a loud laugh that you can't control laugh your head off	laugh very loudly for a long time choke to stop breathing because something is blocking your throat	have difficulty breathing because something is blocking your throat diaphragm	the sheet of muscle separating your lungs from your stomach no hard feelings	to say to somebody you have argued with or beaten in a game or contest to say you'd still like to be friends fall out with somebody	to argue or disagree with them faux pas	saying or doing something embarrassing in a social situation offend	to make somebody angry or upset pedestrian	a person who is walking, usually in an area where there's traffic tackle (something)	make an effort to deal with a difficult problem ban	say that something can't be done reroute	change the direction you're travelling in congestion	too much traffic, making it difficult to move pollution	damage to the environment caused by releasing waste substances such as carbon dioxide into the air, or plastic into the sea retail therapy	going shopping to make yourself feel better down in the dumps	unhappy pang sharp pain buyer's remorse	bad feeling when a person realises they don't need or want the thing you've bought cozy	warm comfortable and relaxed feeling resolution	a promise to yourself to do or not do something shed	to lose sobriety	the state of not being drunk crutch	here is something you depend on for support abstain	not do something that is enjoyable but bad for you bed in	to become normal and start working properly maiden name	a woman's family name before she is married double-barrelled	two names that are joined by a hyphen patriarchal	controlled by men bias	unfair support or opposition to a person, thing or idea wear the trousers	a person in a mariage/partnership who has the control and makes the decisions for both people. minefield	subject full of hidden problems air-kiss	a kiss which does not touch the face, but goes very close bond	connection ritual pattern of behaviour in a certain context accessory	an additional item added to something to make it more useful or attractive laughing stock	someone who people think of as silly sturdy	strong and not easily damaged masculinity	characteristics that are traditionally thought to be typical of men inhibitions	a feeling of embarrassment that stops you from doing something foodie	someone who is very interested in all aspects of food a little bit	a small amount romantic	describes an imagined ideal situation affordable	something we have enough money to buy odorant	something that smells trigger/catalyst	something that can make something else happen give off	send unspoken information world-class	the best in the world fancy your chances	to believe you may succeed at something, even if you might not get behind support underdog	person or team least likely to win sportsmanship	fair and honest behaviour hype	lots of talking and publicity to make people interested in something fortnight	a period of two weeks competitively	playing against other people to get into (something)	become really interested in something professional	someone who gets paid to do something industry	area of business that is made up of different parts scene	the world of a particular activity chauvinist	someone who believes their country, race or sex is better than any others technochauvinism	the belief that a technological solution is always a better solution to a problem objective	neutral, fair and balanced proxy	a piece of software but also someone who does something for you, on your behalf nuanced problem	a problem which has small and important areas which may be hard to spot, but they need to be considered algorithm	a set of software instructions for a computer system cephalopod	the group of animals to which the octopus belongs publicity stunt	something a company might do to grab your attention and promote its products common ancestor	a distant relative from which two different species evolved protean (adjective)	adaptable and changeable phenomenal	amazing, remarkable and extraordinary to take off	become popular provinces	areas of a country that aren't the major cities captures the imagination	makes you interested in something authentic	real, genuine, not a fake or a copy sedentary	used to describe a lifestyle which involves a lot of sitting and not much exercise life expectancy	the age to which you are expected to live shirker	someone who avoids doing something they don't like, usually because they are lazy tongue-in-cheek	something meant to be humorous and not taken seriously clipboard	a board you attach papers to so that you can write on them as you walk around fashion victim	someone who always wears what's thought to be fashionable, even if it doesn't actually look good on them on-trend	in keeping up with the latest fashion eye-catching	attracting attention and being noticed traction	if something gains traction it becomes accepted and popular understated (fashion)	something that does not attract attention and is not that impressive thorny (adjective)	a thorny issue is a subject that is difficult to deal with and discuss objectification	the noun for when we reduce a human being to an object, we don't think of them as a real person anymore role model	someone whose behaviour is a good example that others want to copy aspire to aim to be, hope to achieve detrimental	an adjective for something that is bad for you, something that has a negative effect narcissism	the term for someone who is so obsessed with their own body and life that they don't care about anyone else self-conscious (about their body)	someone embarrassed about their body losing confidence in themselves as a result gastronome	someone who enjoys and knows a lot about high-quality food influential	having the power to make people change what they think cliche	a well-known phrase that is so over-used it has become boring presentable	looks good, is smart and is good enough for people to see restaurateur	person who owns and manages a restaurant expectation	the feeling that something good is going to happen a penny	100 pennies = 1.00 GBP the penny has dropped	someone suddenly realises or understands something to dock	to reduce the amount of money someone receives in their salary or wages, for example as a tax payment adolescent	the adjective to describe behaviour of someone who is in adolescence. Also, the noun for someone who is in adolescence. flexitarian	a diet based on eating mostly plant-based food and only occasionally eating meat ethical	doing something for ethical reasons means doing it as a moral choice because you believe it is the right thing to do combination of measures	a number of different actions ambitious impressive and out of the ordinary survey the literature	study previously published scientific research luxury	a food that we really like but we only have it rarely because it's expensive, rare and/or bad for our health schadenfreude	the satisfying feeling you get when something bad happens to someone else loanword	a word from one language that is used in another language without being changed comeuppance	a person's misfortune that is considered to be deserved punishment for something bad that they have done hypocrites	people who claim to have certain moral beliefs but actually behave in a way that shows they are not sincere commiserate	expressing sympathy to someone about their bad luck down in the dumps	feeling of unhappiness, sometimes with no hope imperfection	fault or weakness a chore	a boring, ordinary task you do regularly admin	short for 'administration' – the activities and tasks you have to do to make a business, organisation or just your life, run smoothly utility company	a company that supplies something such as electricity, gas, or water to the public procrastinate	to delay doing things until later, probably because you don't want to do them super-doers	an informal term to describe people who get satisfaction out of doing life admin and do lots of it	admin – the activities and tasks you have to do to make a business, organisation or just your life, run smoothly aka also known as utility company a company that supplies something such as electricity, gas, or water to the public fad	something that is popular but only for a short time mainstream	something that has become accepted by most people as normal polarised	a situation that causes people to divide into two groups with opposing views immoral	something that society thinks is wrong or not acceptable peripheral	relates to things that are not as important as the main argument but are connected to it / situated on the edge fan	a person who is keen on something endemic	very common or strongly established in a place or situation warren	an underground area where rabbits live, but also a building or a part of a town where there are lots of confusing passageways or streets where it is easy to get lost predator	an animal that hunts and kills another animal paradoxical	something that has two opposing characteristics making it hard to understand trickster	someone who deceives people to get what they want anxiety	a feeling of worry and fear natural selection	a principle of evolution when random changes in an organism's biology may lead it to being more successful in its environment to shape	to have an important impact on the way something develops to cope with	to manage a difficult situation life-threatening	possibly causing death to go off (talking about an alarm)	starts making its warning noise insomniac	someone who can't sleep easily to get sucked into something	not being able to stop yourself getting involved with something that you don't want to do sleep deprived	not having enough sleep resist the urge	to stop yourself acting on a strong feeling to do something feel-good factor	doing something that gives someone a happy and positive feeling regret	a sad feeling you get when you've made a mistake and wished you hadn't made the mistake in the first place cashflow forecast	a calculation of how much money you can expect to have at a particular time income	money coming in from, for example, your salary expenditure	money you have to pay out for your regular expenses such as rent, food, entertainment, transport, etc.

assets	the cash value of things that you own and your savings liabilities	the cash value of your debts, for example on credit cards or other loans fraud	the criminal activity of getting money by deceiving people scam	illegal or dishonest way of making money by tricking someone fall for (something)	believe (something), that is a trick or a lie, to be true sleight of hand	use of clever skill to gain something dishonestly rifle	search something in order to steal from it phishing	tricking someone by email or online to get their personal data by pretending to be from your bank pet peeve	something someone finds particularly annoying or frustrating buying	to buy many or a large quantity of something decant	to transfer from an original container to a different one a hand-me-down	a possession or item of clothing that is not new but has come from someone who no longer needs it or has outgrown it in good nick	in good condition respect	to treat something or someone with care clampdown (or crackdown)	officially trying to stop or limit people doing something misbehave	do something bad or inappropriate Disneyfication	turning something into an artificial, not real, commercial environment, similar to a Walt Disney theme park to cap	to restrict, to limit facial	to do with the face infer	to come to a decision about something using the information you have, which may not be complete in real time at the same time as, without delay induce	to cause something to happen genuine real, not fake figure out	to calculate, to work out fib	small inoffensive lie white lie small lie, told to avoid upsetting someone white lie	a small lie, told to avoid upsetting someone small lie	a small lie, told to avoid upsetting someone inoffensive lie	a small lie, told to avoid upsetting someone deceive	try to hide something by tricking people to gain an advantage at the heart most important or essential part response latency	a term used in psychology to describe the time taken between a stimulus or question and a response to it tonic	something that makes you feel happier and healthier horticulture	the study or activity of growing garden plants panacea	something that is believed to solve everything therapeutic	makes you feel better or healthier biophilia	a passion for or empathy with the natural world and living things innate	a quality that you're born with yawn	breathe in and out with our mouth stretched open to yawn	breathe in and out with our mouth stretched open contagious	can be spread from one person to another a behaviour	a behaviour an action, often automatic, in response to a particular situation cognitive	connected to mental processes and the way our minds work identify with (a group)	to feel close to and have a sense of belonging to (a group) exhibit (a behaviour)	do, show (a behaviour) resolution	a promise to yourself to stop or start doing something have on you	influence a group of similar people on you to behave like them ingrained	an attitude or idea that's been done in a certain way for a long time and is difficult to change merchandise	goods we buy and sell hangover	sick, tired and sometimes anxious feeling you get after drinking too much alcohol permeating	spreading through something and influencing every part of it to stand	to be a candidate in an election to see yourself	to imagine that it is possible for you to do something jargon	vocabulary and expressions related to a particular job disadvantaged background	a family situation without much money tailor (what you say)	to change how you speak to make it suitable for a particular group resilient	able to cope with difficult situations or to improve quickly after an illness or injury resilience	ability to cope with difficult situations or improve quickly after an illness or injury optimistic	have positive thoughts about the future and believe things will turn out well distress	feeling you get when you are worried or upset by something manifest	show clearly and is easy to notice adversity	difficult situation in somebody's life carbon footprint	the amount of carbon dioxide or CO2 released into the atmosphere as a result of your everyday activities. turn down	reject or refuse an offer of something precarious	a situation where things could become difficult or dangerous do the right thing	do what is most fair, ethical or just.

the (national) grid	the network supplying electrical power across a country bucket list	a list of all the things you want to do before you die comfort zone	a situation where you feel safe and comfortable and where your ability is not being tested empowerment	process of becoming stronger and more confident, especially in controlling your life

'kick the bucket'	an informal way to say, 'die' spontaneous	doing something in a natural, impulsive or sudden way based without any planning or premeditation unprecedented	never having happened or existed before cope skills	skills and methods a person uses to cope or deal with stressful situations chunk	a piece of something, often a large part downtime	time when you relax and do not do very much let off	to do something to get rid of strong feelings like anger or excitement by expressing them without harming anyone equivocal	difficult to interpret because it seems to have two opposite or contradictory meanings stands to reason (that)	is obviously true from the facts strain	slight variation of an original virus caused by mutation precursor event or situation	which existed before something and led to the development or existence of that thing red flag	symbol of danger and that some action needs to be taken hypothesis	idea which is suggested as a possible explanation of a particular situation but which has not yet been proved to be correct central nervous system	the body's main system of nerve control consisting of the brain and spinal cord seizure	sudden, violent attack of an illness, especially one affecting the heart or brain trustworthiness	quality of being able to be trusted as honest and reliable gullible	easy to deceive because you trust and believe people too easily luck	believe that things will happen for the best indiscriminately competence	the ability to do something well, in a satisfactory or effective way reliability	quality to being trusted to do what you say you will, all the time scepticism	attitude of doubting whether something is true or useful resistance	refusal to accept a change or new idea apprehensive feeling	feeling worried that something bad is going to happen do away with	(phrasal verb) to remove it completely or put an end to it custodian	someone with responsibility for taking care of something or trying to protect ideas or principles stigma	strong feeling or shame or disapproval which most members of a community have towards something volunteer	someone who works willingly without being paid, because they want to hacker	someone who breaks into computer systems without permission in order to find information or do something illegal eligible	qualified to do something by having the necessary requirements high-profile	attracting a lot of attention and interest from the public, newspapers and the media (have) the keys to the castle (idiom) cybersecurity	measures that are taken to protect organisations and their computer information against crimes and attacks carried out through the internet take off	suddenly start to be successful and popular laid on the line	risked losing something important, such as a job or reputation picked up on	noticed or gave particular attention to something being said or done caught the public imagination	made the public interested in or excited about something ice sheet	thick layer of ice covering a large area of land for a long period of time glacier	very large, slow-moving mass of ice in balance having different parts or elements arranged in the correct proportions tipping point	time at which a change or an effect cannot be stopped rate	speed at which something happens or changes intonation	musical way someone's voice rises and falls when speaking; vocal changes which often effect the meaning of what is said intention	idea or plan of something you are going to do phrase	small group of words often with a particular meaning person	person actually physically present or face to face, instead of via email, telephone or text get annoyed	become angry, upset or irritated minefield / treading on mines	situation full of hidden problems and dangers where people need to act carefully environmentally friendly	not harmful to the environment, or having the least possible impact on it single-use (plastics)	plastic products made to be used just once, only to be thrown away afterwards unheard of	something that is surprising or shocking because it have not previously known about mucus	thick, sticky liquid produced in certain parts of the body absorptive	able to absorb, or take in, liquid and other substances through a surface and hold them magnet	objects that attracts certain metal objects or more generally, which attracts another material in vitro fertilization	a technique for women who cannot become pregnant naturally in which an egg is fertilized outside her body and the resulting embryo replaced in her womb figure out	understand or solve something; work out workhorse	someone who does a large amount of work, especially dull or routine work scourge	something that causes much trouble or suffering unwitting	done without knowing or planning centenary	the 100th anniversary of an important event popular myth	something believed to be true by many people but which is actually not true surface area	total area of the outer surfaces of an object heat loss	measurement of the total heat transferred away from something through its surface insulation material	material used to stop heat from escaping in order to keep something warm resting	not moving or doing anything active; in a state of rest core temperature	body's internal temperature, including the heart, other vital organs and blood tone-deaf	unable to sing tunes accurately or recognise different notes vocal cords	pair of folds in the throat that move backwards and forwards when air from the lungs moves over them larynx	organ between the nose and the lungs that contains the vocal cords; otherwise known as the voice box vibration	continuous and quick shaking movement stress response	the human body's reaction to anything that disturbs its internal balance, for example pain, infection, fear or exercise the glass is half full/empty	used to say that someone has a tendency to look at situations in a positive or negative way alignment	correct position in relation to something else gratitude	feeling grateful, expressing thanks to another person hamster on a wheel	someone involved in activities that make them busy all the time but without ever achieving anything important or managing to finish a task satisfaction	the pleasure you feel when you do something you wanted to do, or get something you wanted to get hedonic treadmill	the human tendency to return to the same level of happiness after something very good or very bad has happened dunking	to dip something, like a biscuit, into liquid for a short period of time fit for consumption	edible or can be eaten edible	can be eaten sustenance	food prominence	importance or well-known sugar rush	get a quick blast of energy amphibious	describes a creature that lives both on land and in water pidgin English	a language that has developed from a mixture of two languages. It is used as a 'lingua franca' – a way of communicating by people who do speak each other's languages loose translation	translation of writing or speech which carries over the basic idea but using words which may not be so accurate or nuanced deity	god or goddess shape-shifter	imaginary person or creature that has the power to change into a different shape or form humility	the quality of not being proud or thinking you are better than others; being humble hieroglyphs	pictures or symbol that represents words and sounds and were used in ancient Egypt decipher	discover the meaning of a piece of writing, even though it is difficult to read or understand pearls of wisdom	wise words, sayings or advice prodigy	a young person with a great natural ability or talent for doing something get the bug	suddenly develop a strong enthusiasm for something superstitions	old, unscientific beliefs which are connected with magic rather than human reason ward off	prevent someone or something from harming you; repel evil eye	bad luck or magical spells which have the power to cause bad things to happen blanket term	idiomatic phrase used to describe many examples of related things rapport	a relationship between two people based on good understanding and communication to get on with (someone)	walk a tightrope objective	based on the facts not personal feelings or emotions frank	express yourself in an open, honest and sincere way sarcasm	say the opposite of what you really mean, in order to hurt someone's feelings or criticise them in a humorous way embryo	an unborn animal or human being in the very early stages of development, inside its mother's womb inbreeding	when animals or people are born by breeding between closely related parents hybrid	animal or plant that has been bred from two different species calf	the young of several large mammals including cows, elephants, whales and rhinos pregnancy	the state of a woman or female animal having a baby developing in their womb ultrasound	procedure which uses ultrasonic sound waves to create images of internal body parts or babies growing inside the body trance	a state of consciousness in which you are not completely aware or in control of yourself, but in which you can hear and see things and respond to commands given by others suggestible	easily influenced by other people lose track of time	become so occupied with something that you are not sure how much time has passed get sucked into (something)	become involved in a situation when you do not want to be involved hone in on (something)	give all your attention to something mesmerised	have your attention completely fixed so that you cannot think of anything else concussion	a type of traumatic brain injury caused by a bump or blow to the head

(to be) off bad or worse than usual; below the usual standard	off: not good, poor; bad or worse than usual; below the usual standard warped	strange and unpleasant pick up the pieces	try to return to normality after a crisis or collapse bright as a button	very happy and cheerful, intelligent, and full of energy bedside manner	the kind and caring behaviour shown by doctors and nurses to people who are ill freckle	a small brown or ginger spot on someone's skin, especially a person with pale skin cancerous	involving cancer diagnosis a doctor's judgement about what someone's particular sickness or disease is, made after examining them rule of thumb	a useful and practical but approximate way of doing or measuring something census	a system of officially counting and classifying every person of a nation's population figure out	to understand something; find the answer to something conscription	the act of forcing people to join the army by law taxation	a system of taxing people an amount of money to be paid to the government to fund public services clerk	an office worker whose job involves keeping records tabulate	to show information in the form of a table with rows and columns alpha male	the most successful and powerful male in any group over the hill	used to describe someone who is old and no longer useful or attractive power behind the throne	someone who does not have official power but who secretly controls things coalition	different political groups who join together for a limited time to form a government wildfire	a fire that is burning strongly and out of control in the countryside wake-up call	shocking event which should make people realise that we need to take to change a situation heatwave	short period of time, such as few weeks, when the weather is much hotter than usual shake someone's confidence	make someone doubt something that they were certain was true indigenous	relating to the people who originally lived in a place, rather than people who moved there from somewhere else glee	a feeling of happiness, pleasure or excitement pass (something) on to	to give something to someone, usually in your family, who lives on after you die bumps in the road	small problems or delays that slow down or stop something from developing immersion	the process of learning something, such as a language or a skill, by using only that and nothing else code-switching	changing between two or more languages when you are speaking dig something up	excavate; remove something from the ground blackouts	periods of time without electricity or energy in real time no delay live machine learning	way computers learn and adapt based on collated data simulate	produce a computer model photographic memory	the ability to remember things in exact detail, like looking at a photograph odds	the chances or probability that something will happen a one-off	something that only happens once suck at (something)	(US) be bad at (doing) something memorise	learn something exactly so that you can repeat it later deep learning	a complete way of learning something that means you fully understand it and will not forget it renewables	types of energy such as wind and solar power that can be replaced as quickly as they are used phase (something) out gradually	stop using (something) vivid memories	memories that produce powerful feelings and strong, clear images in the mind ingrained (beliefs)	beliefs so strongly held that they are difficult to change unique selling point (or USP)	the feature of something that makes it different from and better than its competitors immune system	cells and organs which protect the human body from infection and disease food chain	plants and animals that are linked in a chain because each thing eats something weaker than it, and gets eaten by something stronger opportunistic	takes advantage of a situation to gain benefit, often without thinking whether the action is right or wrong drought	long period of time with little or no rain three-dimensional	having the three dimensions of length, width and height, making objects appear real and solid, not flat phygital	combining the features of physical and digital worlds to create a new type of experience sceptical	doubtful that something is true or useful unwieldy	difficult to move or carry because it's so heavy, large or strangely shaped augmented reality (AR)	technology which augments (adds to) the ordinary physical world by projecting virtual pictures, text or characters on top living	a language that people still speak and use in their ordinary lives my bad	used instead of 'my fault' to admit that you have made a mistake (informal, US) patron saint	someone who is believed to give special help and protection to a particular activity conlang	constructed language; artificially invented language, such as Esperanto and Klingon root (of a language)	origin or source get stuck on (something)	be unable to continue or complete what you're doing because it's too difficult go out like a light	go to sleep very quickly switch off	stop thinking about something and think about something else agitated	get worried or upset encroach	gradually take over side-effects	unpleasant and unexpected result from taking medication sleepwalking	moving around and doing things while still asleep domesticated	describes animals which are under human control and live closely with people, for example pets, working animals and farm animals anthropomorphize	treat an animal as if it were human in appearance or behaviour feign	pretend to have a particular problem or emotion agony	extreme physical pain distress	strong feeling of worry, sadness or pain grooming	the way some animals clean themselves using their tongue or paws rib cage	structure in the human chest made of bones called ribs which protects your lungs and heart primitive	relating to the simple, natural way humans lived in their early stages of development, before money, machines or writing were invented giggle	a quiet, childlike but uncontrolled way of laughing guffaw	laugh out loud, often at something stupid or rude, someone has said mammals	animals, including humans, dogs and whales, which give birth to live young, rather than laying eggs, and who feed their young with milk juvenile	young animal which is not fully grown glass-half-full	person someone with an optimistic attitude who tends to focus on the positive side of life Debbie Downer (US slang)	someone who makes others feel bad by focussing on the bad or depressing side of things sugarcoat	to make something seem better than it really is hyper- (prefix)	having too much of a quality eg. hyperactive, hypersensitive grumpy old man	describes someone who complains a lot, is moody and intolerant, and gets easily annoyed pamper	give someone special treatment, make them very comfortable by giving them whatever they want spoil (a child)	considered to have a bad effect on the child's character take advantage (of somebody)	treat someone unfairly for your own benefit humiliate	make someone feel ashamed or stupid acquitted	declared to be not guilty of committing a crime toughie (slang)	a person who is tough and determined metaphor	way of describing a person or thing by comparing it to something else, often found in poetry and literature It's raining cats and dogs!	an idiom meaning It is raining heavily! cosmology	the study of the origin and nature of the universe double-check	make certain something is correct by carefully examining it again duplicate	repeat or copy something in exactly the same way cross the t's and dot the i's	pay close attention to the details of the activity or task you are doing regurgitate	repeat something without properly understanding it bangers	sausages (bangers) mash	a common British meal mortar and pestle	cooking equipment made up of a bowl (the mortar), and a heavy stone (the pestle) which is used to grind and pound ingredients together take aback	feel shocked and surprised know-how	the practical skills and knowledge of how to do something evolution	the way living things change and adapt to their environment, and pass on these adaptations to their children flora and fauna	the plants (flora) and animals (fauna) of a place drab	dull, boring, and colourless in appearance beak	the hard, pointed part of a bird's mouth cling on	hold on very tight to something spend a penny	old-fashioned idiom, go to the toilet thrown in the towel	idiom, give in; surrender; stop doing something because you realise you cannot succeed Groundhog Day	idiom, a situation in which events that have happened before, happen again in exactly the same way ubiquitous	seeming to appear everywhere break the internet	idiom, cause so much excitement about something online that many people visit the website, making it crash first-world problem	idiom, a problem that does not seem very important when compared to the serious problems faced by people in poorer parts of the world eradicate	completely destroy or get rid of something such as a social problem or disease declare victory	announce something to be finished before it actually is bury your head in the sand	deliberately refuse to accept the truth about something you find unpleasant death sentence	the punishment of death for committing a crime, or from a disease which has no cure call the shots	have the power to make the important decisions which can influence a situation hands-on	being actively involved in doing something practical, rather than talking about it or getting someone else to do it real world	used to describe how the world really is, in contrast to a particular person’s view which may be unrealistic or untypical; reality rather than an idea, wish or dream grown-ups	adults

kids	children

preserve	treat food to prevent it from rotting so that it can be stored and eaten later nomads	people who travel from one place to another, often with animal livestock, rather than living in one place all the time dairy products	food which is made from milk, for example butter, cheese or yoghurt take a step back	temporarily withdraw from a situation in order to think about it more calmly look at the bigger picture	consider the overall meaning of something as opposed to specific details comfort zone	situation in which a person feels secure, comfortable, or in control adapt	change to successfully deal with a new situation staple	basic and important type of food that is regularly eaten by a large portion of the population be in for a shock	be guaranteed to experience a surprising or unpleasant situation tweak	small adjustment to something in order to improve it trial and error	way of solving a problem by trying a number of different methods and learning from the mistakes you make rocks your world	someone or something has a positive effect on you, making your life enjoyable peak	the highest point of something flex	bend without breaking stay-at-home	a woman who stays home to take care of her children and manage the household change your mind	to change an earlier decision you made or opinion you had unresolvable	not able to be fixed or brought to a satisfactory resolution cooling-off period	a period in which two groups who are arguing can try to improve the situation before taking further action, or, an agreed length of time in which someone can decide not to buy something they have agreed to buy intervene	to become involved in a difficult situation in order to improve it invariably	always; on every occasion catching forty winks	getting some shut-eye getting some shut-eye	taking a nap taking a nap	sleeping

sleep on it	wait until you've had time to think carefully before making a decision get on	have a good relationship put someone on the spot	make someone answer a difficult question or make a difficult decision in the moment, often embarrassing them in the process march to your own drum	do things in your own way; think and behave differently from others bossy	enjoy telling people what to do spoiled	allowed to do or have whatever someone (eg. a child) wants, usually with the result that they behave badly young at heart	think and behave in a youthful way, in spite of your age positive attitude	feeling hopeful, confident and focused on the good aspects of life rather than the bad ones twin studies	scientific research using sets of twins to investigate the roles of genetics and environment in human development Mediterranean diet	food typically eaten by people living around the Mediterranean Sea, such as fresh vegetables, olive oil and fish multigenerational household	people from two or more generations of the same family living in a house together family tree	a diagram showing all members of a family over a long period of time and how they are related to each other ancestry	the origins of your family; your ancestors who lived a long time ago take (it) with a pinch of salt	do not believe that something is completely accurate or true; be doubtful or sceptical about something forebears	relatives who lived in the past ethnicity	social, cultural and linguistic characteristics shared by a large group of people blow your mind	be extremely exciting or surprising play	date time that parents arrange for their young children to play together clique	small group of people who like to spend a lot of time together and may seem unfriendly towards other people glamourous (informal)	short for glamorous: visually attractive and exciting fit into	belong and feel accepted by the other people in a group down to	depend on chance rather than effort or skill click with (someone)	quickly feel a friendly connection with someone, especially the first time you meet them anosmic	unable to smell; having no sense of smell weird	strange; unusual; odd; bizarre humanoid	having the appearance and behaviour of a human sassy	bold, confident and cheeky be taken aback	be surprised or shocked by something has a mind of its own	seems to be controlling the way it behaves or moves independently, without human control a splash of colour	a bit of color added to brighten up something which is dull or unexciting expressive	shows what someone thinks or feels artefact	object made by humans, such as a tool or decoration, which is of historical interest cast your eye over	look quickly at in abundance	in large quantities; more than enough health halo	consumer perception of food which overestimates how healthy an item is based on a single feature – such as being low in calories, organic or high in protein – even if its overall nutritional value is poor tide is turning	things are beginning to change fibermaxxing	American social media trend where people intentionally consume high levels of fibre by eating fibre-rich foods and supplements for their health benefits pauper	old-fashioned word for a very poor person spike	a sudden increase in a value being measured metabolism	the chemical processes inside the human body, especially those which process food skip	deliberately miss something, or not do it lean	not fat appetite control	how your brain decides how much you should eat dos and don'ts	rules about how you should and should not behave in a particular situation first impression	the opinion you form about someone when you meet them for the first time picky	used to describe someone who is too strict about rules clink glasses	touch two drinking glasses together as a gesture of friendship toast	show of respect for someone that involves holding up and drinking from a glass of alcohol you can't beat that	something is the best and you won't find anything better snowball effect	situation where one action causes many other similar actions to happen personal preference	an individual's subjective liking or disliking for something, based on their personal taste and opinion part and parcel	essential feature or element of something go-to	relied upon to be the best thing for a particular purpose or situation horticulturalist	person who studies or grows plants like flowers, fruit and vegetables deep knowledge	thorough understanding of a subject, gained from experience and study, that goes beyond the basic facts scanning	searching a wide area with your eyes to find some particular thing a hundred and ten percent	above and beyond what is expected; when referring to certainty, it means without any doubt stigma	negative belief about something which is unfair or untrue exercise caution	act with care and attention to avoid possible risks or dangers; be careful oh man!	spoken exclamation used to show excitement or enthusiasm shatter	destroy someone's false belief or misconception, causing them to realise the unpleasant truth cultural happening	event that embodies the interests and values of a particular cultural group at a particular time in history grit your teeth	be naturally drawn or attracted to something or someone (informal expression) mare	unpleasant or difficult experience take yourself too seriously	consider yourself and your actions as more important than they really are no-no thing	way of behaving that is not socially acceptable the done thing	what you are expected to do in a particular social situation miffed	slightly annoyed by someone's behaviour towards you barney	loud argument or quarrel life skill	essential skill which is useful or important in everyone's life, such as reading, cooking, problem-solving or time management superpower	ability or capacity to do something that other people cannot do spy	person who secretly collects information about another country's government or organisations read people	ability to understand people's real intentions through their behaviour and body language value (something)	consider something important reach for the stars	have high or ambitious aims; try to achieve something difficult even if it seems impossible hide behind a smile	an idiom chillin'	slang not all	not as good as (many) people say it is cracked up to be	(idiom) at ease	comfortable and relaxed tense	worried and unable to relax reset	start again after a rest, so that you feel better about life observational data	information collected from watching people's natural behaviour without interfering in it turn your nose up at	(idiom) reject something because you think that it's not good enough for you ready meal	meal from a supermarket that has already been prepared and can be heated up and eaten later from the very beginning	without using anything that has already been made guilty pleasure	something you enjoy but feel embarrassed about, or think you should not do occasionally	not very often from time to time	not very often everything in moderation	saying advising that it’s best to avoid too much of anything habitable	describes a place or habitat that is suitable for something to live zone	an area with a particular feature potential	possibly having qualities or abilities to do something dominated	controlled by or is the most significant element of fingers crossed	an expression we use to wish for hope or luck pay back	to give back money you have borrowed pay off	to make a payment that clears the remaining amount owed on a loan or debt clear (debt)	to make a payment that clears the remaining amount owed on a loan or debt make ends meet	have just enough money to pay for basic living expenses like food, bills and rent in arrears (idiom)	still owing money that should have been paid already the never-never	buying something with one large payment followed by smaller regular payments which are made until the debt is repaid ups and downs	a mixture of good and bad things happening to someone mood	how a person is feeling at a particular time battleground	place where argument or conflict happens big deal	something of special importance put (someone) on the defensive	make someone feel unsure or threatened by what you do or say belittle	make someone feel inferior or not important put (someone) in their place	show or tell someone that they are less important or clever than they think they are get (something) off your plate	pass a task or problem from your workload to someone else for them to deal with doping	using banned substances to perform better in a sports competition it's fair to say...	used to introduce a statement which the speaker believes is balanced, reasonable or true to shoot off	to leave somewhere in a hurry fire away	an expression giving permission for someone to ask a question or speak restrain	prevent someone from moving de-escalate	become less intense militarise	to equip or use something or someone like an army arms race	a competition between two groups to gain more weapons than the other group dead on your feet	extremely tired motto	a short phrase which reflects the beliefs of an organisation or person life expectancy	how many years a person is likely to live equitable	fair or impartial obesity	a state of being very overweight binge	consume a large amount of something in a short space of time, especially something that you don't usually have alleged	said or believed be true but not proven to be true stumbled across	encountered or found by accident a different kettle of fish	a completely different matter or issue hoax	a deception or lie often done for humour or cruelty serene	calm and peaceful getaway	a place you go in order to escape from normal life peckish	slightly hungry makeshift	describes a short-term, low quality solution utilitarian	designed to be practical rather than beautiful embrace	to accept (an idea or belief) enthusiastically broaden your horizons	to increase the number things you know about, usually by having new experiences team spirit	the good feeling of togetherness that a team can have empathy	the ability to understand other people's feelings interaction	when two or more people or things communicate with and react to each other non-verbal	a cue a signal to do something clumsy	physically awkward typo	a mistake you make when you type something as sick as a dog	very sick paws	the feet of certain animals which have pads and claws biosensor	a sensor which uses a living thing to detect chemicals to screen something for its suitability deterrent	a thing which stops a person from doing something orthodoxy	a generally accepted way of doing things gut	your stomach and other organs through which food passes and is digested anxiety	fear or worry germs	very small organisms which often cause disease fermented	of food or drink having gone through a process where sugars are changed into acids and alcohol diet	the kinds of food and drink eaten by people in an area it's not rocket science it's not difficult to understand a near-death experience	an experience where a person very nearly, or could easily have died scaffold	a structure of interconnected pipes and boards that creates a frame or shape clutching	holding extremely tightly to something unscathed	injured or damaged in a minor way, not harmed at all unprecedented	never happened or done before miracle	an unexplainable positive outcome to a bad situation that people say was the intervention of a god assets	things you can buy and sell status symbol	something you own to show off your wealth and social position make business sense	to be good for business black hole	somewhere impossible to escape pecking order	the informal social system from most to least powerful conspicuous consumption	spending a lot of money so other people notice your wealth waste	you throw away or lose without using or consuming leftovers	the remains of food or a meal, which have not been eaten landfill	a place where rubbish is dropped or buried household name	well-known by ordinary people of a particular place or culture infrastructure	the basic systems and services of a society abundance	more than needed emissions	gases produced by something in this day and age ethical	moral veganism	the vegan diet arid	dry; too dry to support crops livestock	farm animals bleak	unhappy, unpleasant or without hope grave	a hole in the earth where a body is placed toxin	a substance which is poisonous decompose	break down and decay brittle	easily broken implant	something artificial put into the body dominate	control component	a part of something making up a larger whole inoculation	a form of disease protection content	satisfied and wanting nothing cosiness	a feeling of being warm comfortable and safe mindfulness	the practice of only focusing on 'now' for spiritual or relaxation purposes secular	non-religious present (moment)	fully aware of what's happening now grounded	rational, clear thinking bias	a preference for something which affects judgment meditation	focusing your thoughts deeply and quietly, usually for spiritual reasons or relaxation first impression	the idea or opinion of someone or something you make after a very short time trustworthy	able to be trusted extroverted	(of a person) happy and enjoying being with others attributes	qualities perception	opinion based on how things appear make ends meet	have just enough money to pay for basic living expenses financial strain	emotional stress caused by a lack of money go with your gut	make a decision based on feelings self-help	trying to improve yourself without the help of professionals trend	something new which is popular for a period to dwindle	become fewer or weaker therapeutic	relaxing; making you feel less anxious go from strength to strength	to become more successful over time millennial	someone born between the mid-1980s and early 2000s cloak	a long piece of material worn over the shoulders like a coat illusion	something which appears real but isn't mismatch	difference between two things; a bad combination judgemental	critical self-conscious too aware of yourself; embarrassed what others think about you honest	truthful

cheat	to trick or deceive someone to get something you want consumer	person who buys things or services psychological	the way the human mind works, the way we think selfish	someone who only cares about themselves and not about other people co-operatively	working together towards shared goals therapy	a type of treatment for a problem or illness psychological problems	problems of the mind disturbed	not thinking or behaving in a normal way because of psychological problems depression	a feeling of unhappiness that can affect your thoughts, behaviour, and feelings marked	obvious or noticeable intervention	something you do to improve a medical problem (in this context, it refers to different types of talk therapy) suits you	looks good on you stand out	is noticeable or easy to see fit in	belongs to a particular group and are accepted by them persona	the character you present to the outside world – as opposed to the person you feel like inside liberating	feeling you can behave however you like hair-raising	scary often in an exciting way hair follicle	the organ that produces a hair underneath the skin baldness	having little or no hair on your head of a certain age no longer young
facial	to do with the face
regenerate	to grow again artificial intelligence	the ability of machines to copy human intelligent behaviour algorithm	a set of steps a computer follows in order to solve a problem limitations	a limit on what it can do or how good it can be take something for granted	when we don't realise how important something is implement	to perform a task, or take action cutting edge	new and advanced vigorous	using a lot of energy to do something saunter	walk slowly briskly, quick and energetic (the opposite of sauntering) build something in	include it from the beginning incrementally gradually increasing in size sedentary	(job or life) it involves a lot of sitting and not much exercise refreshing	making you feel cool again after being hot enriched	improving the quality of something by adding to it manufacture	something you make it in large amounts in a factory scare somebody off	make them go away by frightening them regulated	controlled comes up trumps	produces a good result, often unexpectedly dos and don'ts	rules telling us how to behave in a particular situation hot under collar	angry lanes	the vertical sections of a swimming pool that are often labelled as 'fast', 'medium', and 'slow' misjudge	guess something wrongly overtake	pass another person travelling in the same direction because you are going faster than them sweet tooth	like sugary things processed food	any food that has been changed in some way by freezing it, putting it in tins, combining foods or adding chemicals at glance	with a quick look fat-free	without any fat in it avoid something at all costs	do everything you can to avoid it demonise	make someone or something seem very bad debate	a discussion that a lot of people take part in stimulate	encouraging new ideas and enthusiasm consume	eat or drink, (also) use vibe	the mood or atmosphere in a place squatter	someone who lives in an empty building without paying rent hog	use all or most of something in a selfish way motivating	something that makes us want to do something push yourself	force yourself to try harder work out	exercise in order to improve your health and fitness fragmented	broken up into small pieces tribal	something that belongs to a group of people who live together and share the same language and culture commune	get close to someone or something functionality	a range of functions a computer or other electronic device can perform hang on to	keep (something) cycle	a process where one event leads to another, and then often repeats itself mature	fully grown or fully developed must-have item	something you feel you must have lustre	shine

paper	the job of delivering newspapers to people's homes Saturday	job part-time work done by schoolchildren, often at weekends and evenings rite of passage	event or ceremony that forms an important stage in a person's life bemoan	to complain about detrimental harmful hindrance to making progress jolly	happy smiley	spirit something's real meaning candidate something's real meaning	a person competing for a job candidate	a person competing for a job reinforce	make something stronger pressure	the feeling of worry when a person gets when expected to deal with a difficult situation worry	the feeling of worry when a person gets when expected to deal with a difficult situation difficult situation	the feeling of worry when a person gets when expected to deal with a difficult situation portraying	playing the part of someone sniffles	a runny nose when a person's nose leaks cold (informally)	a sniffles soldier on	continue despite difficulty man flu	the situation where a person, often a man, tends to complain and exaggerate a small illness such as a cold whining	complaining repeatedly often in an annoying way symptoms	feelings of illness caused by a disease currency	the money being used in a given country at a certain time cryptic	mysterious or difficult to understand legal tender	the official money that can be used within a country fluctuates	changes in amount or level soared	increased very quickly scepticism	doubt that something is real or true dash	a small amount of something, usually a liquid aficionado	someone who is very interested in or enthusiastic about a subject as cheap as chips	very cheap ethical	morally right

roasted	cooked in an oven premium	larger than usual payment	a charge, especially for a service or product inevitable	cannot be avoided or stopped infallible	never failing surpasses	becomes better than benevolent	kind and helpful sentient	able to think for itself far-fetched	difficult to believe commonplace	not unusual; often seen automation	using a machine to do something instead of a human prototype	the first version of something which can be tested before it is produced in large quantities. far-fetched	so unbelievable it's unlikely to happen. maglev	magnetic elevation; a method for moving something vacuum	a space that has had all the air and any other gases removed from it surveillance	carefully watching someone or something, usually to try and stop something illegal aerial footage	film recording made from the sky game changer	something that completely changes the way something is done or thought about sky's the limit	there's no limit to something droning on	talking too much in a boring way aerobic	done over a longer period of time and strengthens the heart and lungs aquatic	connected to water (eg: aquatic sports) synchronised	moving together at the same time or speed as someone or something else mono	used as a prefix, single / one cardiovascular	connected with the heart and the blood vessels social	doing things with other people and usually having fun therapy	treatment (often for mental illness) woe	sadness

check in with	(someone) (informal) meet or talk to someone to exchange information
ethical	morally right
stigma	negative perception held by people, especially an unfair perception self-reflection	thinking about yourself in order to understand yourself master	learn thoroughly or learn well fluent	speak well and without difficulty. frequency	how often something occurs inflections	changes to the basic form of words to show changes to the way they are used in a sentence lemma	the simplest form or base form of a word trend	direction that something is changing over time archaic	dated or old-fashioned concept	idea or belief
phobe	someone who is scared of the idea of a long-term relationship because they believe they will have to give up some freedoms stabilising	making something strong and secure inhibitions	feelings of embarrassment that stop you doing certain things a white lie	a lie we tell without meaning to hurt someone distortion of the truth	changing or bending of the truth malicious intent	doing something deliberately to be cruel or to hurt someone.
societal norm	accepted or 'normal' way something is done in society initially	in the beginning at first	in the beginning neutral	not controlling / not taking any action to control anonymity	the state of having a hidden identity or personality ameliorate	make a situation better to tweak to make a small change kudos	praise and appreciation for something someone has done hangry	angry because of hunger irritability	getting annoyed very easily merge	join different things together fight or flight	hormones chemicals in the body that prepare us for aggression or escape rage	a state of being very angry impulsive	without control; without thinking about the consequences of an action witty	humorous in a smart and clever way honed	crafted and improved over time hypnotic	repeating again and again decline	a decline in getting less demographics	groups or sections of the population involved in a particular activity discourage	make someone less likely to do something selected	a realistic possibility chosen	something that has a good chance of happening unfortunate	disappointing unfortunate	aspects parts	of something math	mathematics (in North American English. In British English the word is 'maths') strengths	things you are good at risk-averse	describes people who don’t like risk risk-tolerant	describes people who don't mind risk risk seekers	describes people who like risk and want risk to assess to assess	to make a judgement or a decision based on information to put away	to save money retirement	time of life when you are too old to work anymore or you have enough money that you don’t need to work anymore chit-chat	informal conversation about unimportant things to date	up until this moment in time agent	something that causes change agency	ability to think, make decisions and act independently vernacular	native language brusque	very direct, not very polite nuanced	small but important things that need to be considered bereavement	sadness we feel when someone close to us dies passed away	a more gentle way of saying ‘died’ muddle through	get to the end of a difficult situation somehow. Not always by making the right decisions but in the end, getting there time-poor	not having enough free time prioritising	deciding how important different things are surf and turf	online shopping without actually buying anything checkout	place where you pay for your shopping, either in a real shop or online retailers	businesses that sell you things turf out	remove someone from a place or organisation, possibly because they've broken the rules or behaved badly out of date	past their best, too old to be suitable fall foul of	make a mistake and get in trouble with someone FOMO	acronym for Fear of Missing Out phubber	person who ignores the real people around them because they are concentrating on their phones addicted	having a physical or mental need to keep on doing something compulsively unable to stop doing something again and again keep in touch with	stay in contact with in person	actually meeting someone face-to-face venture out	to go out somewhere, but usually when the conditions are bad millennials	those who became adults in the early 21st century Generation X	those who became adults in the 1980s and 1990s phenomenal	amazing, surprising and unbelievable distractions	activities that prevent us from doing more important things instagramable	new informal word made with the sufix 'able' and it means 'suitable for posting on the social media platform Instagram' relish	to really enjoy something discrimination	unfair or unequal treatment of people because of, for example, their race, religion, colour, age or indeed height embellish	exaggerate premium	extra benefit, extra advantage disparity	difference admit	say something is true, even if it might make you look a little bit bad keen on	to be very interested in and enthusiastic about something going along with	agree to do something even though you don't really want to do it absent father	a father who is not at home to spend time with his children disciplinarians	people who have strict rules and they give out punishments when these rules aren't followed hands-on	to be very much involved in something obsolete	something that has been replaced and is no longer the first choice drop off a cliff	used about, for example, sales numbers; it means sales have fallen significantly over a short period of time opt for	choose something get into	become very interested in an activity frustrated with	disappointed with something take the next rung up	do something at a higher level swipe	moving the images on a smartphone or tablet up, down, left or right, using our finger instantaneous	immediate, at once rejection	not giving someone the love and attention they would like get over	feel better after a bad experience dusting yourself off	being positive and optimistic after a rejection or a bad experience to cope with to manage / to deal with	(a difficult situation) offensive	rude, insulting and makes people feel hurt and upset take offence	get upset or angry by something thought to be rude or insulting snowflake person	someone who gets offended too easily and unnecessarily invoke	use (something) to support your point or explain your action call something out	challenge, highlight and look for justification for something taboo	something that society says is offensive and shocking generations	a term used to describe people born in a particular period of time (usually, but not always, a period of about 18 to 20 years) noughties	first decade of the 21st Century, from 2000 to 2009 to cater for	provide something that is needed or wanted for a particular group tech-innate	describes people who are extremely comfortable with modern technology and social media hyper-informed	consumers (here) describes people who are extremely comfortable with modern technology and social media savvy	smart and intelligent the norm	what is normal, what is usual for someone decay	the natural process of something being destroyed or breaking down into small particles biodegradable	something that can decay naturally without harming anything psychological	something that affects or involves our mind dissonance	agreement between two opposing ideas activism	taking action to change something – it could be social or political change, or a change in our behaviour or attitude big push	people are strongly encouraged or persuaded to do something, usefully by force donating	giving goods or money to an organisation or charity founding fathers	people who start an idea or an organisation fashion victim	person who has to follow the latest fashion trends rummaging	searching for something that's mixed up with lots of other things simultaneously simultaneously	at the same time as doing something else a creative	a person whose job is to use a lot of imagination and come up with new ideas, such as someone who works in the media or advertising legitimately	describes doing something fairly and reasonably think outside the box	find new ways of doing things redress the balance	to make things fairer and more equal lifeblood	the most important thing to make something a success disparate	very different and unrelated isolated	far away from other places and people stereotype	a simplistic view of person or group based on certain characteristics such as nationality, age, profession intensely	strongly

figure something out	try to understand something regulate	to control hierarchy	a way of organising people at different levels, for example workers in a company flock	a group of chickens productivity	the amount of work done suppressed	stopped something happening; stopped someone doing something imposed	forced on pecking order	a phrase to describe levels of importance in an organisation vital	very important key	essential, necessary physiological response	a reaction your body has to something, like a smell to be baffled by something	to be confused by something, to not understand it chain	a chain a group of shops from the same company, all the shops have the same design and sell the same or very similar products weird	unusual, strange buttons	small, usually round, objects we use to fasten clothes, also objects we can press to make different things happen temptation	something that makes you feel like you want to do something you shouldn't convenient	something that is convenient is easy to use without difficulty fidgeting	not being able to stay still, always moving around to get comfortable or prevent boredom digital	having fingers and toes grooming	making ourselves look nice by cleaning, washing and doing our hair, for example to speak/talk openly (about something)	to speak/talk about a difficult or embarrassing topic with honesty empowerment	giving people the confidence and power to improve their lives themselves to inspire	create in people the feeling of wanting to do something and achieve something imposter syndrome	feelings that you don't deserve your position even though there is no evidence you are not suitable to assume something to think something is true based on one's own beliefs and understanding without knowing the facts in their own right because of their own talents and abilities	imposter syndrome streaming	describes the activity of listening or watching music, radio or videos directly from the internet as a continuous stream commercial success	something that is popular and makes lots of money – like a new computer game or pop song catchy	something that attracts attention and is easy to remember playlist	list of songs that a radio station plans to play or list of songs you compile yourself on a streaming service driving	here having a strong influence register	record, count or measure something – like the download of a file memories	things we remember from the past kinaesthetic learning	by 'doing' and practicing something over and over again contextual	seeing something in the situation where it usually exists encoding	changing information into a form that can be stored and later recalled intuitive sense	doing something based on feelings rather than facts or proof Alzheimer's (disease)	a disease affecting your brain that makes it difficult to remember things and gets worse as you get older oppression	being forced to do something by someone more powerful glamour	the quality of looking fashionable and attractive transformative	great improvement or positive change otherworldly	belonging to an imaginary world rather than the real world act of subordination	an act making someone do something to give them less authority or power draw parallels	an act of highlighting the similarities between two distinct things motives	reasons for doing something makes sense	is understandable and not a surprise out of curiosity	other than a casual interest disillusioned	no longer satisfied with something but disappointed by it jaded	a feeling of being tired and bored by something callous	emotionally hard and uncaring food allergies	medical problems that are caused by eating certain foods robust studies	detailed, thorough and accurate research prevalence	a noun referring to how often or how frequent something is eczema	a medical condition of the skin significant increase	a large, noticeable rise in the number of something to put something down	something to say that one thing is the reason for another enchanted	with a magical atmosphere feat	a difficult task, something that is hard to achieve panacea	a cure potent and strong and powerful deploy	to use something for a particular purpose e.g. the army were deployed to help protect the refugees pressing	a pressing matter or issue is an important one that needs to be sorted urgently e.g. finding a solution to climate change is a pressing matter extrovert	someone who has a very outgoing personality, confident and socially comfortable.

introvert	someone who is shy and not comfortable in social situations and doesn't like being the centre of attention.
findings	the results and conclusions of research unconstrained	without control or restriction gaze	the way that someone looks at someone figured out	understood something after studying it. to make ends meet	have just enough money to pay for basic living expenses sideline	an extra job you do alongside your main job sacrificing	giving up or going without something accustomed	familiar with creative balance	a good mix of doing creative and uncreative tasks grind something	tiring, difficult or boring which involves lots of effort awkward	feeling uncomfortable, self-conscious or embarrassed in a social situation awkwardness	the feeling of being uncomfortable, self-conscious or embarrassed in a social situation implicit	not spoken or written down, but still understood social rules	the way we behave in society in particular situations so that we can live together peacefully to govern	to rule, to control to illuminate	to make something easier to understand, to clarify to breach (a rule)	to break (a rule) floordrobe	a collection of clothes untidily kept on the floor rather than in a wardrobe clutter	untidiness caused by having too many things declutter	the process of getting rid of things to tackle (a problem) deal with	to deal with a problem and try to fix it sentimental	with an emotional and/or nostalgic connection shift	change
make do and mend	an expression that means to use what you've got and fix something if it breaks rather than buying new things comfy	informal comfortable streetwear	a style of casual clothing especially worn by young people from urban settings filter through	appear or happen gradually over time wellness	the state of being healthy eavesdrop	secretly listen to someone's conversation bug	small electronic device used for secretly listening to conversations intimate	private and personal circumvent	cleverly bypass or go around be resigned to	accept an unpleasant situation which cannot change trade-off	compromise paunch	fat stomach that mostly men have skinny	very thin

willpower	controlling your own behaviour to achieve something come to terms (with something)	start to accept the difficult or unpleasant situation you are in judgemental	quick to criticise people based on your own beliefs burst	sudden and short increase in something insomnia	the condition of not being able to sleep tossing and turning	moving around a lot in bed counter-intuitive	the opposite of what seems obvious or natural, but which may be correct decades (here)	many years diluted	made weaker chronic	long-lasting (of a medical condition) dissolves	gets weaker mattering	being important interiority	the quality of being inside (uncommon word) empowered	having the ability, skill and strength to control your own life sexualised	made to look sexually appealing embodying	showing the true characteristics of something knowledgeable	knowing a lot about something technophile	someone who loves technology despise	to hate strongly, to detest class	an artificial grouping of society dictated by birth blip	a temporary fault or mistake in real time happening at that moment, live, not recorded genre	a style of something such as music or films lyrics	the words of a song desensitised (to something)	feeling that something extreme is normal joy/joyful	happiness cannibalism	the eating of human flesh by another human aesthetic	an artistic appreciation of something, a feeling that something is beautiful from an artistic point of view eSports	the business of competitive video gaming staple	a basic essential that is expected and common time-consuming	using up a lot of time discipline	the following of rules and restrictions put together	to organise (something, such as an event) aspiration	an aspiration a hope or ambition for the future a struggle	word used to describe something that is difficult to do and might involve a lot of hard work or conflict agency	being able to act independently and make your own choices backlash	a strong negative reaction to something dampen enthusiasm	to make people less interested in something ban	to use rules to stop something from continuing to happen (to make) concerted effort	a try really hard to do something shame	a strong feeling of guilt and embarrassment to shame	to make someone feel shame by, for example, publicly highlighting their bad behavior crippling	debilitating; causing great harm or damage debilitating	causing great harm or damage effect	to make something happen disposable	designed to be thrown away after a short time reusable	designed to be used many times rolling out	introducing something new to a business infrastructure infrastructure	buildings or structures that are needed for something to work. nudge	a gentle push to fight (something) tooth and nail tooth and nail	to make a strong effort against something tipping	giving someone extra money as a 'thank you' for good service i.e.	Short for the Latin phrase 'id est' and means 'in other words' or 'that is'.

id est	Short for the Latin phrase 'id est' and means 'in other words' or 'that is'. It's used to indicate that what comes next is a clear definition of what was just said or written.
differs	is different the norm normal or usual tacit	not spoken or written but still understood theoretical	adverb used to describe something that can be done but probably won't be cryptography	the use of complex codes to keep computer systems and information secure currency	the money of a particular country cryptocurrency	digitally produced money that is not controlled by banks or governments subject to	being controlled by unpredictable decisions and trends notoriously volatile	well known for changing by a large amount in an unpredictable way stable	predictable and without big unexpected changes plausible	believable, possible resistant to	against idealistic	having a clear and simple moral view of how things should be platform	the policies of a political party or politician status quo	the situation as it is now pragmatism	the idea of being realistic and practical about what can be achieved futurologist	a person who studies and predicts how we will live in the future trend	a way to refer to something that is popular now or that is becoming popular latch onto	become very interested in hunch	a feeling you have based on your knowledge and experience that something might be true even though you don't have any real evidence ingesting	taking into your body, i.e. eating and drinking stringent	strict, strong pay attention to something	to concentrate on something and not be distracted intensity	strength engagement	involvement in a communicative situation diminishes	gets weaker drop out	to quit a college or university course without finishing it prestige	respect and social status sector	an area of business within the economy, for example: the telecommunications sector inherent	a natural part of something, usually a difficulty or risk, that can't be avoided perform	if a company is performing well, it is being successful dominant	strongest, most used escalate	to take something to a higher level, for example to escalate a complaint if you are not satisfied with the first response fix	to try to fix a problem or resolve a complaint internship	a temporary, often unpaid, job for a student or recent graduate at a company social mobility	the ability to move to a higher social status rule out	to exclude or prevent someone from doing something established connections	previous or pre-existing links well-connected	having strong links with important people at high levels within a company open doors	to make it easier to get into a career parlour	name for a shop or room where certain businesses carry out their trade creative person	someone who uses imagination and experiments with new ideas express yourself	show outwardly how you feel and what you're thinking big business	activity that is currently popular and making lots of money fashionable	popular at a particular time dilute	make something less strong or less valuable primary caregiver	the person most responsible for looking after someone point of origin	the place or time where something begins or comes from metaphor	a way to describe something by saying that it is something else with similar qualities perceive	to understand something to be true, to think of something in a particular way prestigious	important, respected disparity	a difference, an inequality can't stand	have a strong dislike of hormone	a natural chemical produced in the body lactation	the process in mammals of producing milk comforting	calming and soothing

make ends meet	have just enough money to pay for basic living expenses
financial strain	emotional stress caused by a lack of money failing to address	not dealing with, not helping with colossal	huge, very big contributor	someone who has something positive to give normalise	to make normal suffer in silence	to have a problem but not discuss it or share it cling onto	to hold on tight to something empathy	the ability to understand how someone feels by imagining what it would be like to be in that person's situation physical assistance	describes helping someone by touching or feeling them tight (in the context of money)	there is not enough abandoned	left alone in a place, usually forever ethics	the study of what is morally right lungs	the organs in our body we use for breathing urge	a strong need or desire to do something spooky	scary and mysterious intimidating overpowering	intimidating and frightening in a way that makes you lose confidence deprived of	to not have something you usually have, to have something taken away sensations	physical feelings and senses like sight and sound gap year	year between leaving school and starting university that is usually spent travelling or working back of my mind	an idea we don't think about frequently but keep stored deep in our memory productive	something that leads to a good or useful outcome predicted	what is likely to happen in the future based on current information alien concept	an idea that is strange and not familiar practical	relating to the learning of real skills which can be usefully applied underestimate	think that something is smaller or less important than it really is anticipating	guessing or expecting a certain outcome pluck up	to force yourself to do something that you're scared or nervous about connect	start or have a good relationship with someone mood	the way we feel indulging	allowing yourself to have too much of something you enjoy. symbolic	representing something festive joyful	feeling you get when celebrating something like Christmas sustainable	the ability to do something over a long period of time without harming the environment. economical	doing something that doesn't cost a lot of money composted	allowed to decay and then added back into the soil to improve its quality pedant	Someone overly concerned with correcting small mistakes linger	to stay in a place longer wander	to walk around with no real purpose or desire to get somewhere up in the air	at risk, possibly not going to happen ignorance	a lack of knowledge about something barbarian	a primitive and uncivilized person emissions	amounts of, usually, gas that is sent out into the air from things like cars pollutants	substances that cause pollution focus the mind	to concentrate on one idea or thought incentive	something that encourages someone to do something complex	something that is complicated, difficult and involves many parts concentrations	amounts of substances, or pollutants, within something pedantic	focusing too much on the small details or formal rules hierarchy	a way of organising people according to their importance contempt	a dislike or lack of respect for someone or something point of view	someone's perspective on something civility	polite behaviour stagnation	staying the same and not developing pledging	publicly promising to do something (you can make a pledge to do something) outsourced	given to another company to do, often because that company has the skills to do it or it can be done cheaper undercuts	if a company undercuts another, it charges less to do a job than its competitor stems from	(something) caused by or a result of something illogical	unreasonable - not sensible, more driven by emotions than practical reason backlash	strong negative reaction to what is happening pond scum	a slang name for microalgae like spirulina and chlorella having a moment	becoming more well-known and popular at this moment in time superfood	a type of food which is especially full of healthy nutrients like vitamins, minerals and protein stretched	not enough resources to meet people's needs sustainable intensification	food produced in ways which don't damage the environment or use new land organism	any plant or animal life form to separate	to divide or split different things into different categories or groups out of sight, out of mind	a phrase that means we ignore or don't think about what we don't see manufacturer	the person or company that makes a product consumer	a person that buy a product lifecycle	the length of time a product is designed to work for existential risks	dangers that threaten the continuation of human life on Earth historical record	the collection of all written and recorded past events concerning the human race wipes out completely	destroys leaving nothing remaining plague	infectious, epidemic disease Doomsday	final day of the world's existence; apocalypse false alarm	warning given incorrectly so that people wrongly believe something dangerous is about to happen neuroscience	science concerning the workings of the nervous system and brain compassion	attitude wishing everyone to be free from all physical and mental suffering flash of insight	a sudden moment of understanding something previously not understood; also known as an Aha! moment neuroplasticity	the brain's ability to restructure its neural, electrical pathways in response to purposeful activity brain circuits	groups of interconnected neurons that perform a specific function when activated enduring	lasting over a long period of time chat-up lines	remarks men and women make to start up a romantic conversation with someone they don't know but find attractive computer programmers	people who write, or code, computer programmes algorithms	a set of rules or procedures to be followed by computers in problem-solving exercises trial and error	repeating the same task over and over until finding the most successful way minimising	reducing as much as possible stroke of luck	when something unexpected happens by good luck or chance pewter	traditional dishes made from a silver-coloured metal called pewter labourers	people who do physical work, especially outdoors harvest	the time of year when crops like wheat or barley are cut and collected from the fields mining	digging up materials such as coal, diamonds or metals like gold and tin from the ground replicated	done again in exactly the same way reminiscent (of)	making you remember a particular person, place or thing be taken seriously	be treated as being deserving of attention or respect get a label	be thought of as having a particular character or nature, often unfairly final straw	further problem or difficulty, usually minor in itself, which comes after a series of other problems and makes you want to give up resentments	feelings of anger because you think you have been treated unfairly or because you have been forced to accept something that you don't like weeping	weep; cry

tears	crying
backlog	accumulation of uncompleted matters that you should have dealt with before and must now do patron saint	protecting or guiding saint believed to give special help to a person or place hygiene practices	for maintaining health and preventing disease, especially through cleanliness jumped out	made a strong visual or mental impact; was easy to notice evidence	facts and information available to decide whether a belief is true or valid issue	important topic or subject that people are thinking about and discussing scream and shout	to speak in a forceful and sometimes angry way to try to convince someone frequency	how often something repeats electrical current	the number of times a wave repeats a positive-to-negative cycle synchronous	occurring together at the same time, place or rate bit of a pickle	informal expression meaning a difficult situation with no obvious answer charge up	get the power needed to work recharge	anomaly differences from what is usual or expected solid state electronics	using semiconductors which have no moving parts and can automatically convert different electrical currents scanning	reading rapidly in order to find specific facts literature	written works including novels, poetry and plays which are considered to have artistic value hemisphere	half of a sphere, usually the earth or the brain coming to life	starting to be activated after a quiet period scalp	skin under the hair on your head stimulus	something that encourages activity in people or things scrap	unwanted waste material rubbish	public at large most people (in the world), rather than just some of them raise consciousness	develop awareness of an unfair situation, with the aim of making people want to help in changing it virgin plastic	original, unused plastic containers before anything else is done to it– made directly from crude oil or natural gas slogan	short, easily remembered phrase, often used to advertise an idea or product emphasised	drawn attention to; especially important go viral	spread quickly and widely on the internet through social media survivors	people who are able to carry on with their lives successfully, despite very unpleasant experiences which still affect them unifier	something that unites and brings others together came forward	offered to give information or help dismantling	breaking up or stopping from working by gradually reducing its power over a period of time virtual	created by computers to appear like the real thing travel well	be transported a long way without being damaged or its quality being spoiled a dog's dinner	an informal way to say something that looks messy or has been very badly done shaper	something that has a strong influence on how a situation develops underlying trend	general direction or development in how people behave which is real but not immediately obvious hobby	an activity someone does in their spare time for pleasure or relaxation flourish	grow or develop successfully frugality	being careful not to spend too much money or eat too much food agenda	specific aim or reason for a particular group to do something basic needs	the basic necessities needed to survive, like food, clothes and shelter, and nothing extra moral slide	a decline in standards of moral (good, fair and honest) behaviour truism	something that is so obviously true it is not worth saying entrepreneur	someone who starts their own business, especially after seeing a new opportunity crowdfunding	getting the funding for a new business by asking a large number of people to give small amounts of money, usually via the internet start-ups	newly formed businesses intended to grow rapidly by providing for a particular market gap corrupt	acting in morally wrong ways, especially acting illegally in return for money or power collective effort	a group of people acting together to achieve a common goal quality of life	level of satisfaction and comfort that a person or group enjoys the new normal	previously unfamiliar situation that has become usual or normalised Bluetooth technology	that allows computers, mobile phones and other devices to communicate with each other without being connected by wires proximity	something or someone being near to another thing or person down the line	at some point in the future for its own sake evidential justification	reasons why something is the right thing to do, based on evidence done because it is interesting and enjoyable	for its own sake trauma	severe emotional shock and pain caused by an extremely upsetting experience self-image	how a person feels about themselves, their personality, achievements and value challenging	difficult or demanding in a way that tests your ability or determination mentor	an experienced and trusted advisor who helps a younger, less experienced person life skills	important skills everyone needs to solve everyday problems and issues goal setting	identifying the things you want to achieve and planning how to accomplish them LED	electronic device that lights up when electricity is passed through it - abbreviation of ‘light emitting diode’ wavelength	the distance between two waves of light which makes things appear to us in the different colours of the rainbow photon	single unit of light microgravity	weaker pull of gravity in space, making things float and seem weightless plasticity	ability of a plant to adapt to and cope with changes in the environment by changing its biological structure genes	chemicals and DNA in the cells of plants and animals which control their development and behaviour hierarchy	a system of organising people according to their level of importance coercion	the use of force to persuade someone to do something they do not want to do commitment	a promise or firm decision to do something left behind	remain at a lower level than others because you are not as quick to improve, develop or progress take full advantage	make good use of an opportunity to progress or achieve a goal be held accountable	accept responsibility for the consequences of your actions airborne	carried and spread in the air metropolis	the largest, busiest and most important city in a country or region antibiotics	chemical or medicine, like penicillin, that can destroy harmful bacteria or stop their growth spread like wildlife	idiom spread quickly around many people commute	distance you travel on your journey between your home and your place of work livelihood	job or other way of earning money to pay for what you need to live perfectionists	people who want everything to be perfect and demand the highest standards possible. stubborn	determined to do what you want and unwilling to change your mind.

woe betide	informal British expression said when there will be trouble for some, or when someone will be punished if they do a particular thing immune system	the organs, cells and processes which protect the human body from infection and illness pathogen	any small organism, such as a virus or bacteria, that can cause disease blood transfusion	process in which blood is taken from one person and put into another person's body, especially after an accident or during an operation.

down the rabbit hole	enter a situation which seems interesting and uncomplicated at first but ends up becoming strange, confusing and hard to escape from pretext	pretend reason for doing something that is used to hide the real reason bonkers	silly, stupid or crazy (informal) disdain	disliking something because you feel it does not deserve your attention or respect get to the bottom of	discover the real but sometimes hidden reason why something happens sweeping	spoken or written about that is too general and does not carefully consider all the relevant facts pollination	process in which pollen is taken from one plant or part of a plant to another so that new plant seeds can be produced fertilisation	plant reproduction in which pollen from one plant travels to the ovary of another and fertilises a female ovule to make new seeds and fruit staple crops	food, like rice or wheat, which is eaten in large amounts as part of a community's daily diet and provides a large fraction of their energy and nutrient needs orchard	area of land on which fruit trees are grown hive	structure where bees live, either built by people or made by the bees themselves food security	everyone having reliable access to a sufficient quantity of affordable, nutritious food that meets their dietary needs in the short term	relating to a short period of time ripple effect	situation in which one event produces a series of further effects to happen one after the other hire and fire	authority to employ someone and release them from employment, sometimes in quick succession job for life	job that you can stay in all your working life upskilling	process of learning new skills or undergoing training to become better at your job lavish	expensive, impressive and large in quantity interdisciplinary	involving two or more academic subjects or areas of knowledge social media	website, app or computer programmes, like Facebook and Instagram, allowing people to communicate and share information on the internet using electronic devices ecosystem	complex pattern of relationships and mutual influences between living things are their environment public health	system of providing services to improve the standard of health of a country's general population does what it says on the tin	does exactly what it is intended to do (informal) trials	tests carried out over a limited time period, to discover how effective or suitable something is great apes	a group of large primates including chimpanzees, gorillas and orang-utans; they have no tail and are humans' closest animal relatives modifying	changing something slightly in order to improve it tool	an instrument or simple piece of equipment, for example a knife or hammer, that you hold in your hands and use for a particular kind of work gestures	movements made with parts of the body like hands, arms or head, to express ideas and feelings pat	to touch someone or something gently and repeatedly with your hand held flat alleviate	to reduce the intensity or severity of someone's pain or suffering seabed	solid surface of the earth that lies under the ocean, at least 1.8 kilometres underwater natural resources	naturally existing things such as minerals, forests, coal and other energy sources that can be used by people vertically	standing or pointing straight up and down at an angle 90 degrees, perpendicular to the ground, as opposed to horizontally parallel to the ground the bends	decompression sickness - a serious medical sickness caused by nitrogen bubbles in the muscle tissues, resulting from return to the surface of the sea too quickly when diving physiologically	relating to how the bodies of living humans and animals function atmospheric pressure	the normal air pressure within the Earth's atmosphere mindset	someone's way of thinking and the general attitudes and opinions they have about something mentality	intelligence

secret information	about a person, government or country cover story	false story someone tells in order to hide the truth data breach	occasion when private information can be seen by people who should not be able to see it malware	computer software and viruses that are designed to damage the way a computer works infiltrate	secretly enter a group or organisation in order to spy on it or influence it punctuality	the fact of doing something at an agreed time and being on time timekeeping	ability to achieve things on time time benders	people who are always late because they don't allow enough time to be somewhere resistance	being against something deadlines	fixed times when things must be completed by consipcious	easily noticed keep someone company	spend time with someone so they don't get lonely social change	shift in how people behave and think significant other	partner solitude	being alone
pinch points (here)	times in your life where there are difficulties and things slow down or change chronic	long lasting (health condition) family tree	drawing that shows the relationships between the different members of a family seedlings	very young plants that have grown from seeds offspring	someone's children, or the young of an animal or plant kin	family and relatives (old-fashioned) agency	ability to act and affect your environment destiny	everything that happens to someone during their life, including what will happen in the future the bigger picture	the long-term, overall view of a complex situation lethal	causing death; extremely dangerous high-density	having people living together in buildings close to one another peripheral	happening at the edge, not centre, of something flight routes	air routes and connections followed by airplanes dose (informal)	something unpleasant to experience fat-shaming	criticising, humiliating or drawing attention to someone for being fat obese overweight in a way that is dangerous for health, as measured by BMI or the body mass index coin	a word or phrase invent a new word or phrase or use it in a particular way for the first time moral fibre	the ability or determination to behave ethically attribute	give a quality, characteristic or feature that someone has scorn	a strong feeling or contempt or disrespect comforter	something that makes us feel relaxed and feel good. culinary	connected to cooking associated make a connection in our mind with something irrelevant	not important or has no connection with the discussion taking place nuanced	small but important differences take comfort	don't feel so bad (because of something else) polyglot	someone who speaks many languages identify with	feel that you are similar or closely connected to something sheer nothing	except; used to emphasise how strong, pure or powerful a feeling is soul	spirit or non-physical part of a person which is sometimes believed to continue to exist after death proficiency	skill and ability to do something well efficient	working quickly and effectively in an organised way folk tales	stories that parents have told and passed on to their children over many years universal	related to all people or things in the world tap into	understand, connect to and express something such as people's beliefs or attitudes wish-fulfillment	achievement of things you really want and desire ramble	talk in a confused way, often going off the subject or not making much sense get to the point	start talking about what is most important and relevant drum up	increase or encourage support or sales for something freelance	work for yourself, selling your skills or services to different businesses petrifying	frightening, so you can't speak or move self-sabotage	having doubts and fears that stop you achieving something fulfilment	good feeling of achieving something for yourself financial freedom	able to control how you earn and use your money pandemic	disease that affects many people around the world take hold	become stronger and is difficult to stop wimpy	feeble or not very strong sheer	great or significant kicks in	starts to happen genome	the full amount of genetic information of something utopia	a place where everyone lives together in harmony thriving	growing and successful inclusive	including everyone and treating them equally mindset	fixed thoughts and attitudes someone has mistreat	treat someone badly or cruelly social security	payment system used by governments that helps people live a reasonable life assistive technology	equipment and technology that help individuals with disabilities to perform functions that might otherwise be difficult or impossible obstacle	object that blocks your movement because it is in your way echo-location	ultrasound system used by some animals to determine the position of nearly objects by measuring how long it takes for an echo to return from the object visually impaired	having a decreased ability to see that causes problems, whether disabling or not normalises	treats as normal something which has not been accepted as being normal before micromanage	control every part of a situation, including small details go on strike	refuse to continue working because of an argument with an employer, usually about working conditions or pay tight schedule	a small amount of time to complete a job or task bossy	always telling people what to do twenty-four hours a day all day and night; all the time	the way to go the best method for doing a particular job invasion	when an army of country uses force to enter and take control of another country suffix	letter or group of letters added to the end of a word to make a new word common parlance	using the words that most people use in ordinary conversation building blocks	the basic parts that are put together to make something at heart	used to say what something is really like through someone’s eyes	from someone else's point of view; how someone else would experience something skinny dipping	swimming naked naturists	people who think not wearing clothes outdoors is a healthy way to live and it makes them feel good advocate	publicly support (something) have one with nature	having a connection with the natural world that makes you feel good liberation	being freed from something shock, horror	said to mean something is not shocking or surprising emitters	countries, industries or just things that produce - or emit - harmful substances that harm the environment ambitions	things you want to achieve even if they are difficult to do paradox	an impossible situation because it has two opposite factors alleviate	make less severe or serious humility	not trying to be more important than others and admitting your bad qualities flaws	faults or mistakes grate	annoy or irritate conscious	aware of something get into the habit of	start doing something regularly, often without even thinking about it suppressing	preventing, stopping or reducing honk	short, loud sound a car horn makes express yourself	show how you feel mate	an animal's sexual partner celibate	not having sex paradox	a situation which seems contradictory or impossible because it contains two opposite facts hatch	when an egg breaks open in order to allow the young animal to come out best of both worlds	situation where you can enjoy the advantages of very different things at the same time hedge your bets	follow two courses of action instead of making a decision between them in order to avoid the possibility of losing out hermit	someone who lives alone and apart from the rest of society, especially for religious reasons dictum	short statement or saying giving wise advice or a general truth about life recluse	(noun) someone who lives alone and deliberately avoids other people drop out	reject the normal rules and conventions of society and live outside the system bereavement	sadness you feel when a close friend or relative dies treat	reward or gift of something special and enjoyable compassion fatigue	emotional exhaustion which reduces your ability to empathise or feel compassion for other people's unhappiness and pain numb	unable to feel any emotions or think clearly because you are so shocked, frightened or tired learned helplessness	psychologically giving up trying to feel better because your previous attempts have not been successful or rewarded finite	limited or having a definite, fixed size headwinds	forces blowing in the opposite direction which stop you moving forward news cycle	the reporting in the media of a particular news story, from the first instance to the last, as well as people's reactions and opinions on the original report a given	something that is assumed to be true or certain to happen no-brainer	a decision that is very easy to make; an obvious choice stuff	things, objects and personal possessions (informal) effect	the positive or negative influence of peers and friends on the way you behave foster	encourage the development and growth of ideas or feelings mainstream	be accepted as normal by most people routine	the usual, fixed way of doing things common sense	our judgement to make sensible decisions match	work equally on both sides inflexible	unwilling to change bias	unfairness; treating one group of people more favourably than another active	involved with (something) plonk	cheap, poor quality wine connoisseur	someone who enjoys a particular thing and knows a lot about it sommelier	someone who serves and gives advice about wine in a restaurant sheer	used to emphasise the amount of something; nothing but palate	describes someone's ability to distinguish and appreciate different tastes encodes	changes information into something we can use or understand out of sight, out of mind	said to emphasize that it is easier to forget something when you cannot see it go to great lengths	try very hard to achieve something territorial markers	smells secreted by animals into their dung or urine to mark their territory disgust	strong feeling of dislike or repulsion nausea	the feeling that you are going to vomit or be sick raise / make a stink about something	make a strong public complaint take a dip	go for a swim (informal) swim against the tide	to not follow what everyone else is doing immodest	shocking or embarrassing because it shows too much of the body nude	not wearing any clothes, naked play hooky	stay away from school without permission dystopia	an imaginary future society where everything is bad non-verbal communication	communication that does not involve speaking such as using physical gestures and facial expressions appeal	the quality in someone that makes them attractive and interesting compelling	so exciting and interesting that it holds your attention battles	problems to be solved; obstacles to be overcome iron (something) out	remove or find solutions to a problem taboo	custom to avoid publicly talking about certain topics or doing certain activities for social or religious reasons, or because people find discussing them uncomfortable pay your dues	do what's expected of you; do your duty (UK) surplus to requirements	no longer needed ageism	unfair treatment of older people because of their age symptom	something wrong with your body or mind that is a sign of some illness or physical process double whammy	situation where two unpleasant things happen at the same time (informal) chancellor	person in the highest position in a government or a university, and especially the title for the head of the government in some European countries hardline	describes someone with traditional and strict beliefs that can't be easily changed put down	insult, used to make someone feel stupid or embarrassed put in their place	made to feel less important than they are trying to be cliches	phrases or ideas that have become meaningless because they've been overused deadpan	serious facial expression that shows no emotion discretionary	choice or option to do something; non-obligatory consistent	acting the same way over time mandatory	describes something you must do imposed	forced on someone cashless	not using cash or coins pool	collect, group together eclectic	describes taste which includes a wide variety of styles controversial	creating or causing conflict coming of age	becoming an adult predominant	the strongest or most important chants	sings the same thing over and over again existential	relating to human existence sponsor	pay for an event or tournament in order to advertise a company or brand in return fast food	hot, often unhealthy, food such as hamburgers or pizza that is quick to cook and serve brand attachment	a deep emotional connection between humans and brands health halo	the perception that something is healthy for you even though there is little evidence to support this ultra-processed food	foods containing added artificial ingredients that you wouldn't add when cooking homemade food	any type of drink iconic	famous for being connected with something or instantly recognisable flood	a large amount of something in a short period of time cited	referenced or noted boom	short period of sudden growth unplayable	not able to be played holds up standards or quality of something	is still as good now as when it was made prejudice	unfair and unreasonable dislike of a particular group of people safe space	place where you feel protected from danger and harm put someone in a box	judge what kind of person someone is based on their appearance or a limited understanding of them feel uncomfortable	feeling slightly worried or embarrassed, not relaxed, in a social situation walking on eggshells	being very careful about what you do and say because you don't want to upset or offend anyone diversity	many different types of people being included together body language	communication though the movements and gestures of your body, rather than with words eye contact	two people look at each other's eyes at the same time brainstorming	discussing suggestions with a group of people to come up new ideas or solve problems process	to understand information by thinking about it and reflecting on it carefully unison	happening together and at the same time water cooler effect	informal conversations and chats between people in their office or workplace (US) nutrient	food that plants and animals need to live and grow pod	group of whales, also other sea mammals such as dolphins eddy	large current of water moving in a circular motion chock-a-block	very full of people or things; plenty of something repurpose	find a new use for something circular economy	economic model which involves sharing, reusing, and recycling existing products as long as possible to avoid waste and to fight climate change equation	mathematical statement using symbols to show how two things are equal bogyman	someone that people called bad or evil in order to make other people afraid inscrutable	not showing emotions or thoughts and therefore very difficult to know

efficient	working quickly and effectively in an organised way
sort	group things which share similarities together flash	quickly or suddenly gut	intestines
microbes	tiny, microscopic organisms living inside the human body calorie	unit measuring the amount of energy that food provides flimsy	weak and difficult to believe; not convincing
skinny	very thin

stick out of the crowd	be very easy to notice, in a positive sense controversy	disagreement or argument about something people have strong feelings about in full swing	at its highest level or activity headache	something that causes you a lot of problems mountain	large amount of something dynamic	continually changing and developing the clock is ticking	time is running out to prepare for or complete something boredom	the state of feeling little excitement or enthusiasm die of boredom	be extremely bored upside	a positive side to a bad situation stimulation	activates or enriches the mind novelty	new, unusual or different. connotation	an emotion connected to a word fusion	a mix of different styles entomophagy	the practice of eating insects uphill struggle	an uphill battle or an entailed effort to achieve something ingrained	long-lasting attitude that is difficult to change viscerally	having an emotional reaction rather than one based on fact or reason sustainably	doing something in a way that can last for a long time and is good for the environment random act of kindness	small action done to help someone else or to make them feel happy counter-intuitive	not happening in the way you would expect it to yummy	delicious; tasting very good warm glow	inner feeling of happiness at doing something kind for others compassion	strong feeling of empathy for the suffering of others and a wish to help them fluffy	soft and woolly; considered not serious or important astronomer	scientist who studies the universe and the stars, planets, moons and suns existing within it distinctive	easy to recognise because it's different from everything else rust	reddish chemical substance called iron oxide that occurs when metals react with water and air immutable	never changing adaptable	able to change in order to deal with new situations habitable	good enough to live in whodunnit	a story about a murder which does not tell you who the murderer is until the end grinding halt	something which gradually slows down until it stops altogether telltale	revealing hidden information which allow a secret to be uncovered alibi proof	that you were somewhere else when a crime was committed perplexed	confused because something is difficult to understand or solve foible	an unusual habit or characteristic which is considered strange or foolish, but which does not harm anyone caffeine	the effect of the natural stimulant caffeine on your brain to make you feel more awake perks up	gives you more energy, makes you feel more active wean off	make someone gradually stop using something that is bad for them Fairtrade	a system of certification which ensures that producers receive a fair price and safe working conditions for growing coffee microlot	small plot of land which grows specialised coffee beans of a very high quality or unique flavour artisanal	made in the traditional way by an artisan (someone who is skilled in working with their hands) soundbite	short and memorable phrase used by politicians rally	unite to support a common goal pull the wool over someone's eyes	informal trick or deceive someone premise	idea you believe to be true and use as the basis for developing an argument conclusion	decision or plan of action after thinking about something carefully and considering all the relevant facts polemical	arguing very strongly for or against a particular opinion or idea like finding a needle in a haystack	something that is impossible or very difficult to find because the area you have to search is so large thin on the ground	there are very few of something abundant	there is more than enough of something scratch the surface	find out (or do) a small amount about something, but not enough to fully understand (or deal with) it vast	extremely large; huge hard to get your head around	difficult to fully understand or comprehend hot-desking	a system where office workers do not have their own personal desk but use any available desk on a day-by-day basis nine-to-five work	work which begins at 9am and ends at 5pm - the normal Monday to Friday office working hours montage	a piece of work made up by putting together several different items, often in interesting combinations sense of familiarity	a feeling of knowing something or someone so well that you feel close, comfortable, and relaxed around them worn out	so old or damaged from continual use that it cannot be used any more hard graft	hard work (slang) phobia	strong and irrational fear of something; a type of anxiety disorder simulation	pretend copy of something that looks real but is not real habitual	the usual, typical way something works drop your defences	relax and trust people by lowering the psychological barriers you have built up to protect yourself first-person	from the perspective of someone who actually experiences an event in person novel	completely new and original; not like anything that has been experienced before navigate	use directions to go where you want to, often by using a map compass instrument for finding directions that works using a magnetic needle	that moves and always points north magnetic pole	point near the North Pole or South Pole where the Earth's magnetic field is concentrated arbitrary	decided randomly, not according to any particular reason or principle light year	unit measuring the distance that light travels in one year (around 6 trillion miles) flip	turn over or move into a different position nincompoop	an informal term for a silly person synaesthesia	a medical condition affecting the brain where two or more senses mix together craving	a strong feeling of wanting or desiring something vivid	clear, powerful and detailed in your mind dismissed	considered unimportant or uninteresting overactive imagination	tendency to imagine things that are not true jubilee	celebration of the anniversary of a special event, usually associated with the Royal Family reign reign	the period of time when a king or queen rules a country coronation ceremony	a ceremony at which someone is made king or queen trifle	sweet, cold pudding made of a layer of fruit and cake, a layer of custard, and a top layer of cream twist on a variation of a traditional food recipe	a twist on a variation of a traditional food recipe, using new and exciting ingredients or different cooking methods humble	modest, not proud tsunami	large wave caused by an earthquake that flows inland causing death and destruction handicrafts	skilfully handmade traditional objects like jewellery, textiles and pottery vulnerable	unprotected, weak, open to harm food security	the ability of a country to produce or obtain enough food to feed its population heartbreaking	causing a strong feeling of sadness get back on your feet	be okay again after having problems or difficulties in life periodic table	chart grouping all the chemical elements according to their atomic number and symbol fragile	easily broken or damaged split	break into two parts chain reaction	series of connected events, where each event becomes the cause of the next memorandum	short, written report on a specific issue or topic conceivable	possible to believe apex predator	predator (animal that hunts and eats other animals) at the top of a food chain because it has no natural predators of its own grudge	a feeling of anger or hatred towards someone because of what they did to you in the past nothing could be further from the truth	expression used to emphasise that something is not true at all cartilage	strong flexible tissue which connects bones or joints in the bodies of living creatures flexible	able to bend without breaking agile	able to move your body quickly and easily global village	description of the modern world as a connected community in which people communicate across great distances using technology such as the internet and telephone spasmodic	happening suddenly for a short time and not in a regular way dodgy	bad, not able to be trusted (informal) word-of-mouth	information passed by people telling each other, rather than being written down or sent electronically gadget	small, modern electronic device or machine which does something useful (straight) from the horse's mouth	directly from the most reliable source, or from someone who has reliable knowledge of it promotion	moving someone up into a higher, more important or better paid position in a company or organisation glass ceiling	an invisible barrier to advancing in your career non-promotable tasks	unimportant and time-consuming jobs which helps a worker's organization but do nothing to advance their career burn-out	exhaustion caused by working too hard multitasking	doing more than one thing at the same time juggling	trying to manage your job or life when you are involved in several different activities which all demand your time influencer	someone who is paid by a company to promote its brand on social media, encouraging other people to buy their products dos and don'ts	rules about how people should and should not behave in a certain situation crack a joke	tell a joke took off suddenly	started to be successful or popular intrigued	very interested in someone, often because of an unusual or unexpected quality given some detail or fact	that is considered as true or real human guinea pigs	the first people to have something new tested on them vice versa	used to indicate that the opposite of what you have just said is also true thread the needle	task which requires extreme skill and precision to do successfully, especially one which requires balancing conflicting interests the whole picture	a complete description of something which includes all the relevant information and opinions about it wade through something	spend a lot of time and effort doing something boring or difficult, especially reading a lot of information in top of (something)	in addition to something, especially something unpleasant attention span	the length of time that someone can keep their thoughts concentrated and fixed on one thing do something	(do something) for the joy of it on the surface level	quickly and superficially looking at what can be easily understood, rather than understanding the full depth of something analogy	comparison between things that have similar features inference	guess, opinion or conclusion that you make based on the information you already have skimming	reading rapidly in order to get a general overview of the text being read at the end of the day	after all the relevant facts have been considered bestie	best friend (be) bestie (slang)	best friend (be) find it difficult to choose between two possibilities	torn between go viral	spread quickly and widely on the internet through social media and email right in front of your eyes	used to emphasise that something surprising or unusual happened directly before you torn between	find it difficult to choose between two possibilities, leaving you feeling anxious or worried broaden	expand your horizons investigate	in a new way in order to increase the range of your knowledge, understanding or experience chastise	punish or criticize strongly colour-blind	unable to see the difference between certain colours, especially green and red pointless	without purpose or meaning, and a waste of time I would say that, wouldn't I?	of course I would say that; used to imply there's some reason that what the speaker is saying is obviously biased towards them subjective subjective	based on personal opinions and feelings rather than on objective facts puberty	stage of life when a person grows from a child into an adult because of changes in the body’s sexual reproductive system emotional	vulnerable have your feelings and emotions easily hurt trivialize	make something seem less important than it really is get through (it)	manage to survive a difficult experience or challenging period of life over the counter	describes medicine that can be bought in a shop without a doctor's prescription bane of (my) life	source or cause of persistent unhappiness or misfortune babble	meaningless noises and sounds which babies make as they start learning to speak stressed syllable	sound within a word which is emphasised by being spoken longer, louder or higher than the other sounds error	mistake classic example perfect or most typical example of something which has all the features which you expect such a thing to have take (something) for granted	accept or assume something without question ambiguous	having more than one possible meaning; being open to interpretation yelling	shouting pacify	calm down someone who is angry in the near future very soon, within a short time as a matter of fact used to add emphasis to a statement, to give more detail about what has just been said, or to introduce something that contrasts with it empathetic	able to put yourself into someone else's position and share their feelings or experiences you know	filler word used to give the speaker time to think, or to express uncertainty delay	to put off to a later time; postpone diagnose	identify a disease or medical problem by recognising the symptoms and examining the patient suffer in silence	endure or struggle with painful feelings or trauma without asking anyone for help put (someone) at ease	make someone feel calm and relaxed confidential	kept private and secret; information which is not shared with anyone non-verbal cues	communication using means such as the expression on your face, hand gestures, or tone of voice to show how you feel about something, rather than using words arrive at	calculate; decide on it after doing calculations take grip on	take control of ballpark figure	a number which is a guess but an acceptably accurate approximation dehydration	condition of not having enough water in your body so that you feel ill or weak symptom	sign or feeling in the body showing the presence of an illness or a condition perpetual	constantly continuing without end stew pot	a pot of stew stew	into which new ingredients are regularly added so that the food is kept going and can be eaten over a long time simmering	cooking at a temperature slightly below boiling so that the food bubbles gently replenish	fill up again not strictly true not completely or entirely true from scratch	from the beginning, without the help of anything that has already been made cumbersome	difficult to do; taking a lot of time and effort controversial	argued about, controversial outpace	go faster than rival a competitor knowledge economy	a service economy based on highly skilled industries such as IT, finance or advanced engineering regardless	without considering, or being influenced by segregate	separate and keep apart at the heart of	the most important part, or main cause, of something can-do attitude	showing determination and confidence to take action and achieve results

The American dream	the idea that everyone in the United States of America has the chance to be successful and happy if they work hard long-standing	having existed for a long time take on (something)	a variation of, or new way of presenting, something which already exists the final nail in the coffin	an event that causes the final end of something that had already started to fail rage bait	social media content designed to provoke an emotional reaction so that people engage with the content thereby generating income for the online creator the more (X)... the more (Y)...	as one thing (X) happens repeatedly, another thing (Y) happens more as a result incite	encourage someone to do or feel something unpleasant or violent; stir up; provoke; rouse manipulative	trying to influence or control someone to your advantage eyeballs	the number of people viewing a particular website, television programme etc.

sense organs	specific parts of the human body (ears, eyes, tongue, nose and skin) which allow you to experience the outside world funnel	move or direct something through a narrow space wear and tear	the damage that comes from ordinary everyday use we're doomed!	used to say that we are destined to be defeated or to fail downward spiral	situation which continuously gets worse and worse redundancy in the system	having more than one way to achieve an outcome so that a backup method can take over if other methods fail moratorium	temporary suspension of an activity chap (informal)	man
turning point	time when a situation starts to change, especially in a positive way
(not) stand a chance	(not) have a chance of success give a shout-out	publicly praise someone or something media	good at using media outlets, like TV and newspapers, to convey a message to the public the law of the land	the set of rules and laws that exists in a certain place erosion of trust	gradual weakening of people's confidence in political and economic institutions and systems in office	in power at the present time add-on	extra part that is added later, rather than being planned in from the start take someone/something seriously	think that someone or something is important and deserves attention pin down	force someone to be specific about their plans and intentions jaw dropped	used to say someone looks very shocked and surprised hypothesis	idea that is suggested to explain something and which can then be tested to find out if it's correct fossil	remains of a prehistoric plant or animal that have been preserved in rock for a very long time tiny fraction	very small amount blink of an eye	a very short period of time (idiom) consensus	general agreement versatile	having many different uses or purposes unimaginable	used to say that something is difficult to imagine because it's so good, bad, large, etc.
ailment	illness or minor health problem aphrodisiac	food or drink believed to increase sexual desire abstain	choose not to do something stimulate	encourage or cause to grow, develop or become active at first glance	seeing something for the first time, before having a chance to consider it more carefully hidey-hole	small place for hiding things in, or hiding yourself in tend to (do something)	do something often and be likely to do it again in the future by far	by a great amount one hundred percent (informal) completely; used to emphasise that you agree completely with a statement cope with	psychological ways of managing the stress of emotionally challenging situations turned off	uninterested; repulsed super	+ adjective; very, extremely, more than usual shape	the narrative; have a strong influence over how something is presented or understood branch out	into; start doing something different from what you usually do pushback	negative reaction to something new that has happened dig up	search for hidden or forgotten information, often details that could damage someone's reputation umbrella term	term used to describe a large number of different things which all belong to a single common category grooming	brushing and cleaning the coat of hair of a horse, dog or other animal hours/days on end	for hours/days continuously, without stopping puberty	stage of life when a child grows into an adult because of changes in their body which allow them to have children (child) in care	child who is looked after by the local authorities because they cannot be cared for by their parents or family; also known as a 'looked after child' bond of trust	strong feeling of reliance and confidence between two people nostalgia	a feeling of happiness and also some sadness when you think about a thing that happened in the past indeed	used in present simple to emphasize or confirm something stated before do	used in present simple to emphasize or confirm something stated before yes	used to agree with a statement or question dying for	really want rose-tinted	seeing only the positive parts of something and not the negative divided	in disagreement; not together aroused	feel a strong emotion like anger or disagreement motivational	something that makes us determined and enthusiastic heat	an intense feeling, often anger open-minded	willing to listen to and consider new ideas silver bullet	a simple solution to a complicated problem prepper	someone who believes disaster is likely to happen soon, and so prepares for it kid joke mentality	the way someone thinks about things apocalypse	an event which causes destruction and change status	respect and importance compromise	lower the standard of something CV/curriculum vitae	document listing someone's education, qualifications and work experience, which is written when looking for a job aim high	be ambitious aim high	the worst they can do is say no phrase meaning 'don't be afraid of trying to do something for fear of rejection' catapult	suddenly accelerate or launch forward stand out	be very noticeable or better compared to other similar things give a kick	provide extra stimulation or excitement catalyst	something that causes another action to start, or speeds it up like an exclamation mark like	be interested in, or want to do something food	(in food) maturity stage when a food item is fully grown and ready for harvest mature	fully grown and ready for harvest grind	crush into powder by pressing between two hard surfaces exclamation mark	used to describe something which shows strong emotion, surprise or excitement excitement	used to describe something which shows strong emotion, surprise or excitement optical illusion	a visual trick where your eyes and brain perceive something that is not really there, or see it differently from how it really is whole bunch of	a lot of (something) put off	cause to dislike, lose interest or not do something giveaway	something that makes it easy for people to discover something secret or unknown clicked in my mind	used when you suddenly understand something black-and-white	subject or situation where it is easy to understand what is right and wrong deforestation	the process of cutting down trees co-op	a farm owned by its workers social enterprise	a business that wants to help the community trace something back	to find out where something has come from geolocation data	data taken from a device which can show you exactly where a person or thing is remote	at a large distance from places where other people live first and foremost	more than anything else; used to emphasise the most important feature of something tolerant of	able to endure difficult conditions without being damaged be used to	familiar with; be accustomed to yes and no (idiom)	partly and partly not; used when there is no clear answer to a question subjectively based on someone's personal experience	not objective facts food	noise intrusive, unwanted thoughts about food into the ether	completely disappeared; vanished into the air an angel on one shoulder and a devil on the other	used to describe a personal dilemma or difficult decision based on an imaginary angel, representing conscience, and an imaginary devil, representing temptation self-esteem	belief and confidence in your own abilities on the market	available for sale side effect	secondary effect of a drug or medicine, usually undesirable or unwanted food security	situation where a country has a reliable enough supply of food to feed its population worst-case scenario	the worst possible thing that could happen in a particular situation stark obvious, severe, harsh	piece of the puzzle part of the solution to a question or problem part of the solution	not the problem (idiom) helping it continue	if you are not actively trying to fix a problem, you are helping it continue hard-wired	describes automatically thinking or behaving in a particular way via	by way of or by use of masking	hiding or stopping something from being seen inherently	in a way which is natural dodgy	something bad that, when talking about food, can make you unwell avoidance	the act of keeping away from something chronic	continuing for a long time burnout	physical or mental exhaustion caused by working too hard sharpens/concentrates	makes you think clearly nerves (informal)	worry or anxiety one-size-fits-all approach	an approach which tries to apply the same solution to all problems, instead of solving each problem individually to-do list	list of all the tasks you have to do natural	coming from nature dedicated	designed and used for one particular purpose co-opt	involve someone or something, sometimes against their will circuit	a system of connections inevitable	in a way that cannot be stopped or avoided intricate	having lots of detail decibel	unit for measuring sound dress	wear clothes with bright colours, large patterns and bold designs handle (a problem)	deal with something difficult art installation	artwork designed to create an interactive experience in a specific space squeaky	making a high-pitched sound counterintuitive	happening differently from what you would expect open mic night	live event where anyone is allowed on stage to perform music, tell jokes or recite poetry touch your soul	affect you deeply on an emotional or spiritual level jargon	special words and phrases that are used by a particular profession or group impenetrable	impossible to understand turn-off	something that people dislike or find uninteresting make goose bumps	become so cold, emotionally affected, or afraid that the hairs on your skin stand up to make tiny bumps mental shortcut	something that helps us make a decision quickly worried	about what other people think about us upsell	selling extra products, or more expensive products to customers basket	amount of money spent on a single transaction think outside the box	think creatively to come up with a solution model	show behaviour that you want others to copy intentional	acting with that plan or reason in mind make your expectations higher	the bar needs to be higher enable	encourage someone's ability to do something, or to make something possible eager	want to do or have something very much shift a small change	set someone up for something prepare someone for something	set someone up for something deeply ingrained	firmly established within a person or a culture and unlikely to change take off	suddenly become popular or successful milestone	important event in someone's life or in the development of something quality of life	level of enjoyment, comfort and health a person experiences; measure of a person's overall wellbeing liveability	degree to which a place is suitable or pleasant for living in copy and paste	an exact copy of something, which is then moved and put somewhere else something going on	something unknown and interesting happening expertise	specialised knowledge or skill gained through study or experience conscious	involving active thought or attention driven by	influenced by or pushed forward by all over the place	describes a situation or mental state that is disorganised, chaotic or confused margin	a measure of difference, small details of which can affect an outcome hyper-vigilant	be very careful or almost too careful to notice things, particularly when there is a possibility of danger be of one mind	be part of a group of people that share the same opinion, desire, or viewpoint on a matter confront	meet with it or deal with something nightmare	a scary or upsetting dream phenomenally	do something in an extreme or surprising way resilient	able to recover and come back from something difficult or bad